Always start from the correct tee, according to the starting board or any special instructions on the day board.
Be ready to play and on the tee five minutes before your starting time.
Start at the correct time, it allows time for the match in front to create a necessary gap between you. If you start too early you will quickly find you are held up.
Once on the course play without delay as soon as the match in front is out of range.
If you lose one clear hole in the match in front you must allow the match following to pass.
If you feel you are held up, and the match in front is not holding its place and has not asked you through a polite request is all that is needed. A well-mannered approach will not offend.
Do not talk or stand close to or directly behind the ball or hole when a player is addressing the ball or making a stroke.
